

Submission instructions

First enter a group!

You normally work in groups of two. You submit your assignments in Canvas. For every module you need to first register as a group - this is done on the People page. One of you can then submit for the group.

Even if you have been approved for working individually, you must enter a group as a single member! It may be possible to submit anyway, but this is unsupported in Canvas and may have unexpected consequences!

Before you submit the first assignment you will be able to register in groups yourselves. However, for any subsequent changes you will need to contact the responsible person for this. The reason is that Canvas is not good at handling changes to groups and can mess up the points. (If a change needs to be done we will clone the existing groups to a completely new "group set" and make any change there, in order to preserve the groups for already submitted assignments).

If the group is changed in any way as the course proceeds, it is important that you notify us so that Canvas assigns marks to the right persons.

How to submit

For each assignment, submit a file with a name like "module2group34.pdf", replacing the figures as appropriate. Do not compress or pack the file. Make sure to get this right since it makes our handling of the submissions easier!

Note: You must submit a pdf or html file as a report that explains your submission in plain text. If you submit a code, it must be in the pdf file.

Include all of the following information on the first page:

- group number
- module number
- name and personal number, program (MPDSC, ADS etc.) of the group members
- email address that is checked frequently
- if you have been allowed to be something else than a two-person group, please write this clearly.
- the declaration "We hereby declare that we have both actively participated in solving every exercise. All solutions are entirely our own work, without having taken part of other solutions." (This is independent and additional to any declaration that you may encounter in the electronic submission system.)
- the number of hours spent working on the assignment for each one of you (excluding lectures)

The assignments are part of the examination of the course, and violations of the course rules will be reported to the university. All parts of the assignment should be solved in cooperation by both people on the front page, and clearly not by any others. Any copying from other groups or other sources - or looking at other's solutions before submission - is unacceptable.

You must submit your answers to all problems within the deadline. If you are unable to submit in time (e.g for health reasons), make an individual arrangement with a teacher to resolve this.

For any return please update and resubmit the entire document - do not submit only the requested changes.
